paypal.com Review

The Scam Detector website Validator gives paypal.com one of the higher trust scores on the platform: 87.5. It signals that the business is best defined by the following tags: Authentic. Trustworthy. Secure.. We are confident about our score as we also partner with other high-tech, fraud-prevention companies that found the same results. So, why this score? We came up with the 87.5 score based on 53 aggregated factors relevant to paypal.com's industry. The algorithm detected little high-risk activity related to phishing, spamming, and other factors, as noted in the Authentic. Trustworthy. Secure. tags above. Long story short, we deem this a secure website. But let's explain in more detail.

Proximity to Potentially Harmful Websites

This metric gauges the connection, scored on a scale of 1 to 100, between paypal.com and websites marked as suspicious. Elevated scores point to a stronger link with these questionable online destinations. It's worth noting that website owners might not always be aware of their site's proximity to these dubious platforms or servers. However, a "Proximity to Suspicious Websites" score surpassing 80 strongly indicates a high-risk website, while a score below 30 signifies a less-threatening site.

Risk Factors: Threat, Phishing, Malware, and Spam

These indicators reveal the vulnerabilities and elements embedded within the HTML code of paypal.com. They become especially pertinent if the website has received reports from internet users who've encountered unsolicited emails, ads, or messages related to the site. In the context of paypal.com, our investigation continues working to pinpoint the specific category, but we welcome your insights in the comments below. A high Malware score generally implies the presence of suspicious code that might be unknowingly disseminated. Conversely, a high Spam score hints at a possibly spam-ridden email address associated with the business. Scores under 30 in both categories are reassuring, but any score surpassing this threshold should raise concerns. paypal.com is an authentic, safe website, given all the risk factors and data numbers analyzed in this in-depth review. Share your experience in the comments.

factors that efficiently analyze a company's website, in this case, paypal.com.

Online overpayment 28/5/2024 Contacted PayPal as Total Adblock online offer of £1.99 free from adverts offer resulted in amounts adding up to £147, being paid instead of £1.99. As transaction was via PayPal, happy in knowledge that i had payment protection. They looked into transaction and as their was an online transaction error, not a scam the company involved hadn't done this intentially. I thought that was it I had to sort this out now. Today I'm suprised to received a total refund with confirmed by PayPal and amount showing back into my bank. Always found PayPal helpful when I needed their expert aid.Thank you paypal

Probably the worst (and nastiest) customer service ever. Their claim software is faulty, but they have nobody who has the intelligence to understand the fault and failed forever to arrange contact with somebody who has even the slightest technical knowledge. Don't ever try to help them, they will punish you for it.

I wanted to purchase a diamond ring for my wife from a jeweler in NYC. Unfortunately they required I go through PayPal. Long story short, the ring was stolen in transit and it was almost impossible to get my money back from PayPal. Their customer service is the most unprofessional and untrained organization I have ever dealt with. I was lied to and promises were made and never delivered.

Worst customer services . Today I was trying to resolve the problem and the customer service agent refuse to provide his name. Then at the end told me his name is Angel. Extremely rude and with poor education. I was claiming a dispute since I returned an item and the seller received it . And never returned my money. PayPal customer services told me that is money has left my bank account, and I had confirmation from the bank of it; it's now the 3rd of June. My payment to the receiver has yet to be processed.

I used to love paypal but along with hundreds of others was recently scammed for £95 after an automatic subscription was set up on paypal without my authorisation or knowledge. Its impossible to get hold of a person to speak to as circumstances weren't covered by their automated resolution centre. I tried umpteen times to resolve the matter without success. Nobody listens to you. I will never use paypal again. I do not trust it as a method of payment. They enable companies in their underhand dishonest tactics.

I have a Business account with PayPal and have tried to make a transfer several times on different days in the past two weeks. When I asked the Customer (Un)Service about the rationale, they replied, 'We don't know why the transfer is denied by the government'. Of course, PayPal has the exact reason. What is the problem with informing the customer and making me aware of the regulations? What is to be hidden? Their support is obviously not centred on the customer and *tracking shows delivered they refused my claim. There is no one to contact to speak to just automated rubbish. Stick to using credit cards from now on at least you have protection that exists and someone to talk to when things turn sour.

Farewell PayPal*

I've heard so many bad stories about PayPal, but clearly they don't care. My dreadful experience happened in February when I stupidly bought some men's briefs on IG and saw that it was 'protected' by PayPal. The company had the word 'London' in their name so I thought it was a UK based brand. No no, it was a Chinese conman that sold extremely small, useless briefs that took a month to show up. Thinking PayPal will help, I started a resolution to get my refund. Let's just say, PayPal couldn't make the common sense decision if it tried (which it doesn't btw). I have to pay more to send the briefs back and TRUST the untrustworthy person to tell PayPal that everything is in order. I really hope this company goes out of business due to its terrible customer service experience with so many people. Nobody is reading this before deciding whether to use PayPal, but I'm one in a long line of people that want to express their dreadful experience.

there! I repeatedly say "main menu" and it disconnects me entirely and hangs up. Very frustrating!

The low rating for them does not surprise me. What surprises me is that no matter how bad they are, we still use them. It's crazy that they can take your money in a few seconds but then when you file a claim to try to get your money back it can take weeks. This is the very reason that if I do choose to use them to make a purchase, it's always a small purchase. I'm not gonna help them make money if they are not helping me resolve things faster.

Paypal has gone to the dogs. Buyer protection is non existent. Avoid using paypal for all purchases they are not helpful at all. I paid for a service subscription online and never got the service and paypal closed and wont help me with the case, they gaslight that they need more evidence when theres nothing else to provide and are rude and unhelpful will never use or trust paypal again.

so frustrated this might be ridiculous enough to be funny.

I feel much safer using PayPal in making payments, and especially knowing if something goes wrong you can take a Resolution with them. Having said that I am disappointed that they do not allow for people who do not have emails going onto their phones etc. I had an issue with On Buy and consequently because I was unable, and kept telling PayPal I could not download the pics they wanted, I have lost out. In the end I had to WhatsApp to a friend, who in turn emailed them to me. I then had to find an email address to send to PayPal, which for anyone who needs to know is - listed on Google. All of the dinosaurs out there like me, this is an easy way to get your relevant information - pics - to PayPal. It might be useful if PayPal were to put this type of information out there, especially when someone tells them they are not able or do not know how to!

I had a frustrating experience trying to add my PayPal debit card to Apple Pay. I had trouble activating the card, so I contacted debit card support. No one could help me, and it even locked my account. I called back and spoke to a representative who gave me incorrect information and Paypal is consistently the worst experience I ever have. As a business, I've only used them as they are popular for customers. But they completely shaft you with no support and hold on to funds for a long time. As a customer, they take unauthorised payments from my bank account. I settle a negative balance and they charge me twice, holding hundreds of ££s for over 2 weeks. I removed my bank account. They want me to settle a small figure but won't accept a debit card as payment - I'm not giving them permission to debit my account directly. F them. You try to speak to anyone and it's impossible. They have an unhelpful AI chat. And if they finally do respond the outcome is always unhelpful.

Score: 1.8 stars

“ZERO STARS”

I had two fraudulent charges on my account and after repeatedly trying to address the issues via the app I had to call their "help center" only to be told that because I monitor my banking multiple times daily (due to past identity theft) and had to wait until a certain time of day to contact them

Offering services are tricking people into sending money as friend, if you fall into doing that PAYPAL will DO NOTHING! They allowed this scammers to keep going instead of saying, "Ok we can't give you the money but we will freeze the account of this person," or "We are going to follow up about this email," NOTHING! Service Value Quality

Known to be close peoples accounts and confiscate they're money for no reason even after giving them all your personal information Id Driving license bank statement etc.Thank you paypal for freezing my account an my money for no reason. I learned a lot by avoiding you. There are a ton of services out there with much lower fees that doesn't steal peoples hard earned money. Service Value Shipping Returns Quality

"No Advisor or Refund"

Paypal do not refer you to an adviser with problems, instead get a robot bod, that keeps repeating itself. Also been waiting ages for a refund for something that I cancelled. Eg no item have been received or returned, however, it is taking business reactions. Of course I was denied. It's all about their bottom line. There are other options to pay now besides PayPal, use those services. Products used: No product was used. Never received what I purchased. Service Value Quality

“Not like the old days”

When you escalate a claim you assume PayPal reads the entire complaint however after my previous experience I have discovered they didn't understand the actual issue. They actually missed the entire point. The issue was about purchasing of insurance that didn't cover my item, the issue was not my item. There are 2 lessons here, retailers are now desperate so be careful and PayPal has clearly been outsourced as their grasp on the English language is clearly absent.

“Cash out”

The cash out with smooth easy to do and happen without a hitch transferring to my Paypal account. I would recommend it to anyone

Ombudsman auspices. Acts entirely in their own interests. Insecure uncooperative, impossible to communicate with. Avoid at all cost. You are simply introducing another level of insecurity into any transactions you make. Tip for consumers: PayPal actually unbelievably, cooperated in a fraud against me and also passed personal information about me to an unauthorised third party. They can do this, because they are based in California and are not regulated by the Financial Ombudsman in the UK. Products used: None. Stopped in time. Beware: It is very easy to accidentally click on PayPal. Service Value Shipping Returns Quality

“Fraud”

I ordered some apparel articles from a Chinese company named Beambead. Half of the clothes never got to me. I complained to Paypal, proved my complaint with a fake shipping label provided by the company, and provided all the documentation to them. They still sided with the "seller", of course, because they make money out of the transaction. DO NOT TRUST PAYPAL! I am closing my account and I will never pay anything else through them. Service Quality company.I would recommend to everyone, not use PayPal,cause they do not stand behind the customer satisfaction policy.I was scammed by a China company,that didn't even specify that it was a Chinese based company on the selliers website.And PayPal doesn't want to get involved.People beware, please Tip for consumers:The scam company is Hotdealsus Pilavix Pte Ltd Products used:Ladies blue jeans Service Value Shipping Returns Quality

“Avoid Paypal: Terrible company with useless service 13-Feb-2024”

Terrible company with useless service Terrible company with useless service. They have such convoluted policies that even their customer service is not able to clarify what it means. I made a payment to a customer and the customer asked me to cancel the transaction as the shipping address was incorrect. Paypal put the transaction on hold and said that it is under review. This is even after calling their support team. Can you imagine that? They told me that it was under review for 24 hours. But they could not tell me why it was under review. Keep in mind that I am the payer and I called to cancel and they are reviewing me?. No wonder their share price is struggling and dropped from $350 to $60. Clearly in the dumps. A terrible company and must be avoided at all instead of helping him. There was a time when I called their service via the phone and they just hung up. Apart from that, money transfers via PayPal have a lot of problems. E.g. They can allow you to put lots of your money on their crypto balance. After that, there are a lot of problems and delays to take your money back. Tip for consumers: There are plenty of other money transfer systems on the market, better take another one

“Me: I cancelled that payment 3 days before.”

Wonderful world of high fees Paypal, where your money will get drawn from your account no matter what you do. You'll be able to take money out when they feel like it. Last straw: I cancelled a Fotor subscription 3 days before the draw date, mind you I cancelled it months before with Fotor, but this was directly with PayPal. It shows fine as inactive, with accurate dates. 3 days later, I get a note from my old bank that they rejected the transaction...Then I get 3 more notices in 2 weeks. Finally, they find my new card and charge that. Mind you, they have documented proof on their site I cancelled DIRECTLY WITH PAYPAL. So, silly me, I dispute it. They credit it, then they reverse the credit because the merchant states they delivered goods...Um, it was a account paypal dal momento che mi viene richiesto di ricevere un messaggio o una telefonata al vecchio numero, che non è più attivo. Nella sezione "aiuto" di paypal non ho trovato nessun aiuto possibile, poichè semplicemente si consiglia di cambiare il numero di telefono dall'area riservata inserendovi quello nuovo, ma tale azione non è però possibile - contrariamente a quanto segnalato sul sito di paypal - per il semplice fatto che quando si prova ad accedere viene richiesto il numero di telefono! Trovo assurda questa cosa, perchè nessuna banca normale fa perdere l'accesso al proprio conto se non si dispone più del numero di telefono originario!

"I would recommend this"

The money appears in your account the following business day, and the transfers are easy and rapid. I highly suggest it. Extensive accessibility on nearly all websites. Cons include phishing attempts and spoof emails sent to the official email address by people posing as Paypal, which implies ongoing cyberattacks. Service Value Quality

"Buyer protection has significant caveats"

shirt and received a white shirt. Despite the merchant's return policy, PayPal refuses to process a refund until I send the white shirt back AT MY EXPENSE. So, before purchasing something from a PayPal merchant, consider how much it's going to cost you to send it back if the merchant sends the wrong thing. Service Returns

“Zettle is terrible and PayPal makes it worse.”

PayPal put a limit on my account and now I can't process credit cards. They asked for information, I supplied it, they said the review would take 3 business days but after that, they asked for more information and another 3 days to review that and then they wanted more information and after I provided that they say 5 days. Beside this nightmare, Zettle app has been awful. They only recently added the ability to keep customer information. I can't even find out what customer received a receipt for any charge before. Now it still cant look up what customer made a particular charge. It only shows me the receipts when I look up a customer file. It is very unsophisticated. Tip for consumers: Don't use Zettle!! Products used: I have used PayPal for many years but it was Zettle, which will only work with PayPal that made me have problems with my PayPal account. Service Value Quality product, received what they had requested, but then initiated a chargeback through their bank. We sent Paypal all the evidence that this was a fraudulent attempt on the customer's part. Paypal just accepted the chargeback without fighting for us. More recently, a customer asked for a refund. We processed it. For reasons that were never explained, Paypal sent the customer the refund, but didn't withdraw the funds from our bank account. Instead, Paypal put us into a negative balance, and subsequently sent us to collections. However, they never sent us any notification that we had a negative balance. They never sent us any notification that we were in collections. The collections agency itself, which is run by Paypal, never even reached out to us. Paypal did, however, constantly send us spam emails offering loans and marketing services. We only discovered we were in collections after being unable to log in. At that point we had stopped using Paypal so weren't logging in regularly. When we called Paypal to figure out why they hadn't just deducted the funds from our bank account, they had no answer and no apology. They just directed us to their own internal collections agency. We've always been in good standing with every one of our other payment processors, have had no problems with these other payment processors, and we run a successful business. At the end of the day,

“Be careful”

From my experience its nothing to write home about i put money into the system and didn't leave with a dime. I regret ever trying, beware i have tried so many other with same outcome and i want to help those of you out there who has been through same. I got the help I was seeking through uncac.net

“No improvements”

PayPal is a vital tool for me so I'm thankful for it. However, the design and security tinkering over the last two years has given no improvements at all. Firstly the new telephone alert simply to log is happening every day. It's simply too much. Then the design overhaul seems to come from a department that's making changes that are not well thought out. When I want to check last year's payments I have to shrink the screen of my 14" lap top down to 68pc simply to allow it to function. Service Value Quality Consumers are smart. Typically, they don't trust websites that don't show transparency, such as the location of the business, team, or any other physical existence. When domain owners contact us to challenge the trust score of their website on our website Validator, we would kindly ask them to share some of the following things: * Details from their ecosystem that would show that they are 100% trustworthy (certificate of incorporation, business registration, official records showing the name of the website or business, etc.). * Their personal profile on LinkedIn and social media accounts for the business on Facebook. * If possible, some screenshots/proof of satisfied clients (not testimonials on their website), proof of inventory, canceling orders when requested, etc.). We are more than willing to update the review right away—the more proof you show, the higher the trust score will be.
